PALAU The coral reefs are among the most diverse and beautiful in the world. Palau is home to over 700 species of coral (400 hard corals) and over 1300 species of fish, at the last count. There are over 60 dive sites offering a huge variety to see and photograph. Whether it be the currents found at Blue Corner, the beautiful hard coral gardens, the breathtaking soft corals of Big Drop-Off and Yellow Wall or even the visually stunning Blue Holes there are dive sites to wow any and everyone. With critters ranging from Manta Rays and Sharks all the way down to Mandarinfish and Nudibranchs there is always something to look at. There are also some outright miracles of evolution: giant clams that weigh a quarter of a ton and a lake teeming with 21 million softly pulsating stingless jellyfish.

TRUK The world's best wreck diving is located in the Pacific Ocean almost at the equator east of Guam. There are over 65 ships including armed cargo ships, hugh tankers, small destroyers and a submarine. These relics of war, antiaircraft guns, tanks, tractors, trucks, planes, artillery shells, saki bottles and dinnerware are just a fraction of the artifact awaiting your discovery. These ships which now form magnificent reefs are covered in coral, tropical fish and marine life that you will never see in the Atlantic. We will explore the engine rooms, machine rooms, operating room, crew quarters, radio rooms, wheel houses, and if your adventure level is up maybe even a skeleton in the wrecks of TRUK LAGOON.

KOSRAE Have you ever wanted to dive on reefs that only few have seen? Kosrae, called "The Sleeping Lady" because of the shape of one of its picturesque mountains is covered with dense tropical jungles and high volcanic peaks, with lush river valleys and spectacular views. The island is surrounded by very healthy fringing reefs teeming with splendidly colorful tropical fish feeding off the spectacular corals. Visibility exceeds 100' — perfect for spotting paddling sea turtles, sharks and large rays winging their way through the blue waters. You can identify at least a dozen different Butterfly fish at Kosrae.
